

Elizabeth Rosenberg

Managing Director – Global Financial Crimes Public Policy and Emerging Risk Executive

Elizabeth Rosenberg leads public policy and emerging risk related to financial crimes for Bank of America. She is responsible for industry and policymaker engagement around matters of financial crimes and sanctions law and policy, and coordination within the company and with external stakeholders to address emerging and exigent threats related to financial crime. Previously, Rosenberg served as the Assistant Secretary for Terrorist Financing and Financial Crimes at the U.S. Department of the Treasury where she was responsible for leading and coordinating anti-money laundering policy, counter-terrorist financing and -proliferation financing efforts, and the use of sanctions to advance U.S. national security.